Artbarn is a not-for-profit theater arts program with the goal of providing affordable opportunities for regional youth to experience the excitement of collaborative work in the performing arts. While expanding the theater arts community for youth in Brookline, the program aims to foster self-respect, self-esteem, and social confidence while empowering young artists of diverse backgrounds to express their creative visions through child-centered decision-making and group problem-solving skills. Tuition scholarships are available. Our mission is to keep this program accessible to all children who express an interest in the performing arts.

Ongoing or annual events:

- Out of the Box program, theater productions for in school assemblies
- Rafters program, a performing arts class for seventh through ninth graders
- Barncat program, a performing arts class for fourth through sixth graders
- The Split Hares, traveling troupes for first through sixth graders
- Duck Soup program, a performing arts class for first through third graders
- Sprouts program, a preschool class introducing the performing arts
- Jazz Band
